For our Late Years retrospective, we are left with a whopping 24 seasons to represent.

In addition to uncountable exhibitions at the New Arts Gallery, the Program has through the years mounted residency exhibitions at other northeast Pennsylvania venues including the Allentown Art Museum, Lehigh University, Northampton Community College/Bethlehem, Reading Area Community College, and, in Philadelphia, at the Painted Bride Art Center, Community Education Center, Moore College of Art & Design, and Museum of American Art of the PA Academy of Fine Arts.

Between 2012 and 2019, NAP expanded the definition of a gallery space with its Project Wall—a second exhibition area within the NAP quarters at 173 W. Main. The Wall gave the public a chance to view artists' works and ideas in progress, exhibitions on the fly, and other work that typically might not find its way into a gallery setting. In addition to her 2020 show, Patricia Goodrich, represented in the current exhibition, took on a Wall.

While each of the three 50th Season Celebration exhibitions is feast for the eyes, we find disappointment in the fact that we could not include every artist who participated in an NAP residency or exhibition during NAP's history. We would like to point you to the NAP Review, bundled here beginning on page 9, which attempts to list the entire roster of NAP guests since 1974.
